Question:

What is the joules rating for the tisdlip extension plug socket surge protected switches 3 gang ?

Answer:

What is a "joules rating". Sadly I am not an electrician - may I suggest you contact the manufacturer.

Sorry. This plug extension is non-rewirable.

By TISDLIP-EU stores SELLER on 21 May 2018

Sorry, I don't know. We just screwed it to the wall and can't now see underneath it as to whether it comes apart. Other plug boards that we have can be adapted to put a longer lead on

By Ferry fan on 20 May 2018

Yes, mine could be undone at the back and a new cable connected.

In-between my neighbours and my house is a tunnel and at the end of it there is an old wooden door that must be at least 50 years old. We had it painted about 10 years ago and it was showing its age. So it was time to repaint it. The wood was stripped down using a heat gun. Primed and under-coated with DWSE undercoat (grey) I painted it initially with the Satin finish and whilst ok, it just didn't do it for me. So I ordered the Gloss and one coat later, I have the finish I wanted. (Point to

I should have taken heed of other reviews! The paint is very runny and really would need 3 coats to cover properly, even after using primer & undercoat. The drying time well exceeds the 16 hours mentioned on the tin - some areas still don't appear to be fully dry after 48 hours. It also has a tendency to bubble, which would need sanding down & re-painting to get a good finish. The paint was applied in fine weather to shed doors so had good ventilation. The reason I gave it 1 star is
